

What's your specialty? Moattar, Ltd. specializes in handmade reproduction and custom rugs. We also have the largest inventory of antique rugs in the South.

Which family members play a role in the company? Andrea and Jason Moattar are the brother-sister team that serve as co-presidents and head the company. Their roles include selling to designers and designing their private label lines for various companies.

What's Moattar best known for? For having a sterling reputation of rugs in the design world. This comes about from always staying ahead of trends, whether that incorporates the hottest colors or the newest patterns. Obviously, all of this means nothing if you don't deliver with the most impeccable customer service.

How has running your business changed, opposed to five years ago? Our business has changed over the past five years because the world has changed over the past five years. As there are more price-conscious clients these days, we realize that we must have a price point that works for every type of budget.

What's on the horizon? Moattar will continue to serve the country as the premier source of antique, reproduction and custom rugs while expanding our private label line known as "Moderno," a graphic, hand-tufted line that caters to a more modern, budget-conscious client.
